It was a thrilling competition, and I'm thrilled to congratulate the winning team for their outstanding performance. Their dedication and teamwork truly shone on the field, and we applaud your achievement.

Additionally, we organized an elocution competition, organised by BOS SSEB-Operations, centered around the theme "Learnings from My Principal- My Teacher".

Moving on, we celebrated the days of Ganesha with great fervor. An exciting Ganesha idol-making workshop was organized, where students gathered to create eco-friendly idols for their own homes. It was a fantastic way to celebrate this important festival while promoting sustainability.

Furthermore, September brought us the privilege of hosting a seminar conducted by our very own Immediate Past Chairman of Nagpur ICAI, Jiten Sanglani Sir. His insights and guidance were invaluable, and I hope you found the seminar enriching.

As we move forward, I encourage each and every one of you to contribute to our Mindscape Newsletter. The Creative Corner is the perfect platform for showcasing your talents, whether it's through articles, artwork, or any other creative work. Your contributions are what make our newsletter vibrant and engaging, so please feel free to share your thoughts and creations.

NPS – NATIONAL PENSION SCHEME

Attentive readers,

As professionals in our field, we consistently seek new avenues for investment opportunities. Nevertheless, it is crucial to acknowledge that investment inherently carries unforeseen risks. The potential loss of financial stability stands as a significant occurrence in our lives. Various investment schemes exist, offering high returns while others focus on future financial planning. Within this context, the National Pension Scheme (NPS) emerges as one such investment plan aimed at securing the financial well-being of our families. Let us now delve into the fundamental aspects of the NPS.

Introduction: NATIONAL PENSION SCHEME (NPS) is a retirement benefit Scheme introduced by the Government of India to facilitate a regular income post retirement to all the subscribers. PFRDA (Pension Fund Regulatory and Development Authority) is the governing body for NPS. National Pension System Trust (NPST) was established by PFRDA as per the provisions of the Indian Trusts Act of 1882 for taking care of the assets and funds under the NPS in the best interest of the subscribers. The powers, functions and duties of NPS Trust are laid down under the PFRDA (National Pension System Trust) Regulations 2015, besides the provisions of the Trust deed dated 27.02.2008. NPS Trust is the registered owner of all assets under the NPS architecture which is held for the benefit of the subscribers under NPS. The securities are purchased by Pension Funds on behalf of, and in the name of the Trustees, however individual NPS subscriber remain beneficial owner of the securities, assets and funds. NPS Trust, under the NPS Trust regulations, is responsible for monitoring the operational and functional activities of NPS intermediaries' viz. custodian, Pension Funds, Trustee Bank, Central Recordkeeping Agency, Point of Presence, Aggregators and that of IRDAI registered Annuity Service Providers (empaneled with PFRDA) and also for providing directions/advisory to PF(s) for protecting the interest of subscribers, ensuring compliance through audit by Independent Auditors, and Performance review of Pension Funds etc.

SAILENT FEATURES: National Pension System (NPS) is based on unique Permanent Retirement Account Number (PRAN) which is allotted to every subscriber. In order to encourage savings, the Government of India has made the scheme reassuring from security point of view and has offered some attractive benefits for NPS account holders.

National Pension System Trust is a specialized division of Pension Fund Regulatory and Development Authority which is under the jurisdiction of Ministry of Finance of the Government of India.

Low cost scheme One of the most important features of the product is that it can manage automated asset allocation for each individual account separately by starting with a higher allocation to equities and gradually shifting away to fixed income as one gets older.

Independence The scheme enables the citizens to be independent even after getting retirement.

Subscribers have the flexibility to select the fund manager to manage the funds invested in NPS account. At any point of time, if the subscriber is not happy with the returns, he may switch the fund manager as per his convenience. Funds are accordingly allocated to the fund managers. The National Pension System is a voluntary defined contribution pension system in India.

UNDERSTANDING START-UP VALUATION: A COMPREHENSIVE GUIDE

Introduction

Startup valuation is a critical aspect of the entrepreneurial journey, influencing everything from fundraising to equity distribution. It can be defined as the process of estimating the fair market value or the intrinsic value of a company. After analysing the market value (the price at which a stock can be readily bought or sold in the current market place) and the intrinsic value (actual value of the stock based on its perceived true value), one can decide whether to buy, sell or hold a company's stock. As the entrepreneurial landscape evolves, the methods for determining a startup's value have become more diverse and complex. With introduction of shows like Shark Tank, there is a spark of interest in youth to know more about Startups. This article aims to provide a comprehensive guide to startup valuation, exploring key concepts, methods, and factors that entrepreneurs, investors, and stakeholders should consider.

Key Concepts:

Valuation vs. Funding Round:

Valuation is not a one-size-fits-all metric. It varies at different stages of a startup's life cycle and can differ significantly between funding rounds. Early-stage valuations may be more about the potential and team, while later-stage valuations focus on revenue, market share, and profitability.

Pre-Money vs. Post-Money Valuation:

A pre-money valuation is the value of a company before it receives outside investment. Potential investors often conduct research and come up with calculations of what they think the company is worth. The company may reject that figure and wait for a higher pre-money valuation from a different party. On the other hand, a post-money valuation is the value of a company after it receives investment. Whether a valuation figure refers to pre- or post-money makes a difference in the number of shares an investor will own in a company.

For instance, if the pre-money valuation of a startup is $1m and the investor puts in $250k, the post-money valuation will be $1.25m — and the investor receives 20% of the company (250k / 1.25m). But if $1m is a post-money valuation, then the investor will own 25% of the business.

Methods of Startup Valuation:

1. Comparable Company Analysis (CCA):

CCA involves comparing the target startup to similar companies that have been recently valued or acquired. Factors include revenue, growth rate, and market conditions.

2. Discounted Cash Flow (DCF):

DCF estimates a startup's future cash flows, discounting them to their present value. While widely used, DCF can be challenging for startups due to uncertainties in projecting cash flows.

3. Market Multiples:

This method compares a startup's key financial metrics, such as revenue or earnings, to industry benchmarks. Multiples are derived from similar public companies or recent acquisitions.

4. Berkus Method:

The Berkus Method assigns values to five key elements: sound idea, prototype, quality management team, strategic relationships, and product rollout. Each element has a predetermined maximum value.

Factors Influencing Startup Valuation:1. Market Potential:

Investors assess the target market's size, growth rate, and potential. A startup addressing a large, fast-growing market is often deemed more valuable.

2. Revenue and Traction:

The startup's current and projected revenue, as well as evidence of customer adoption and traction, significantly influence valuation.

3. Team and Expertise:

The strength of the founding team, their industry expertise, and track record play a pivotal role. A capable team can enhance a startup's perceived value.

4. Intellectual Property and Competitive Advantage:

Unique intellectual property, patents, or a sustainable competitive advantage can positively impact valuation.

Challenges and Considerations:1. Uncertainty:

Startups often face uncertainties in terms of market dynamics, technology changes, and competition. Valuation should account for these uncertainties.

2. Negotiation Dynamics:

Valuation is not only a numerical exercise but a negotiation process. Balancing a fair valuation while meeting the funding needs is crucial for long-term success.

Conclusion

Understanding startup valuation is vital for entrepreneurs seeking funding and investors looking for promising opportunities. By grasping the key concepts, valuation methods, and influential factors, stakeholders can navigate the complex landscape of startup finance with greater confidence. There are several other valuation methods too, apart from the ones that have been discussed and the eventual choice of the method to be used should be made after considering the characteristics of the company and the industry. As the startup ecosystem continues to evolve, staying informed about innovative valuation methods and market trends is essential for making informed decisions.

Hai sapna mera kr jaun kuch

kuch kahe unkahe sapne hain
ab jivan ka aadhar mera
